

Kevin Struthers, Fiscal Systems to speak at NATSO 2009 Conference

Focus on technology changes in the Truckstop and Travel Center Industry.

Madison, AL – January 5, 2009 – Technology changes at the speed of light, bringing retailers new opportunities, risks, and responsibilities. With increased demands on each owner's time, staying on top of every technology development has become more difficult. Join NATSO's University panel where you can learn up-to-date information on today's point-of-sale (POS) technology, new payment card industry standards (PCI), and Check-Link™ advances to help reduce bad check losses.

The panel comprised of Bill Bartkus of TravelCenters of America, Sean Flynn of Flynn's Truck Plaza, and Kevin Struthers of Fiscal Systems will provide valuable information and solutions that directly influence your business's operations. "The NATSO 2008 conference is designed to prepare the truckstop and travel plaza's for today's industry challenges" said Kevin Struthers, Executive Vice President of Fiscal Systems. "We invite all of our customers and attendees to learn about tomorrow's technology opportunities."

NATSO's conferences provide opportunities for those in the truckstop and travel plaza industry to come together to learn from industry experts and exchange ideas, information, and network. NATSO attracts owners, operators, suppliers, and leaders for educational presentations and discussions that help retailers drive better results and initiatives to combat the changing environment. This year's program includes more than 50 workshops and 165 exhibits with innovative new solutions and services.
